U.S. Patent and Trademark Office PTOL-303 (Rev. 7-05) Continuation of 11. does NOT place the application in condition for allowance because: Concerning applicant's argument that the prior art does not teach a centrifugal clutch assembly that opens in response to a detected fault condition, the examiner respectfully disagrees. First, it should be noted Genise's arrangement provides for control logic capable of decreasing engine RPM. It is understood that such a reduction would result in clutch disengagement. Furthermore, the prior art discloses a quick release mechanism for disconnecting the transfer of torque under abnormal circumstances. Such operation would effectively open the centrifugal clutch, as it would be necessary to avoid overrunning the engine/motor whose load has been removed. This behavior of minimizing engine output as a function of the engagement of the positive clutch has been taught in US6080082 whose disclosure was incorporated by reference. Then, for the aforementioned reasons it is believed that the rejection is proper.
